12 Additional Cases Are Found; New Victims in Towns of Adams, North Adams and Westfield

Twelve new cases of infantile paralysis were reported by the State Department of Health today.

Four of the new cases were reported from the western part of the State, where State and Federal health officers yesterday began a joint crusade to stay the alarming spread of the disease.

New cases were reported from North Adams and Adams, close to the New York State line, and an additional case was also discovered in Westfield.

The Westfield case is of an eighteen-year-old girl, Miss Anna Taylor of Ashley street.

Montague, in the infected area, reported one new case and Springfield and Hadley, in the central western section, each report two new cases. The Hadley cases are of two children living on the same street.

CASE IN DARTMOUTH.

In Dartmouth, which abuts both New Bedford and Fall River where cases have been reported, a positive case was found in the four-year-old child of a visitor from South Dakota. One of the new cases is in Boston. The day's record brings the total of infantile paralysis in Massachusetts to 175 cases since June 1. Of that number, sixty-five have been reported since August 1.

North Adams and Westfield each has twelve cases.

The cases reported today are:

Adams—Amelia Bryda, East Hoag street.

Fitchburg—William Berndt, Fox street.

Out of this inning, however, they could do nothing with Miller, making but one hit in the eighth round. An error and a passed ball figured in the visitors' runs.

CHUCK TO BURY.

The brotherhood leaders are "bearing from home today." They are receiving numerous requests from the rank and file to "waste time" but to press for immediate settlement.

Warren S. Stone, president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, declared his belief today that President Wilson could be unable to prevent a strike unless provided with new legislative machinery to handle the controversy.

"We do not intend to wait very long for the mediators to settle the controversy," Stone added. "The men per of the men is such that they would not wait a minute if we had not persuaded them to give the mediators a chance to hear and would ask for mediation to settle the dispute."

'WE'VE GOT YOU NOW,' POLICEMAN TOLD SOKOL, HIS WIFE DECLARES

"My husband was lying down when Patrolmen Morgan and Donnelly came in. He got up and was standing in front of the bedroom when Morgan hit him over the head with a billy and threw him on the bed. My husband was standing with his back to the officers when he was hit. "Donnelly then jumped on him and punched him with his fists before drawing his club. "Patrolman Morgan said to my husband: 'We have been looking to get you and we've got you now. I've wanted to do this for a long time.' "My son, Hyman, did not use a knife on the policeman. All the knives were in the kitchen in their usual place."—From the statement by Mrs. David Sokol.

THREE CITIES EXPECT THE BREMEN

Three cities are today on the watch for the German submarine Bremen. New York, following the receipt of two strange wireless calls for "The Bremen," is believed to believe that the Bremen will make that port.

New London is a certain that the Bremen will arrive there shortly that the Bremen will make that port.

Dispatches from Norfolk, Va., state that the Germans in that city are making that port sometime today.

MAY BE OFF CAPE.

While these three cities are awaiting the Bremen, Henry G. Birkel at Baltimore, an officer of the Eastern Forwarding Company, intimates that the Bremen is outside the Virginia Capes.

It became known today that the boy which called the German wireless station in New York signed its message "D. B. U. C."

It was the private code signal of the North German Lloyd steamship Bremen, believed to be led up at New Orleans.

Bremen will arrive at that port some time today. Reports have been circulated in Norfolk that the Eastern Forwarding Company had a private message that the Bremen would make its appearance in Chesapeake Bay.

The report is that the Bremen has safely made her way across the Atlantic and will be in the harbor before long before reaching the Virginia Capes and making its entry into the Virginia harbor.

While these various reports are being circulated at New London, it was said that the Bremen dock at the Eastern Forwarding Company would have had the Bremen dock at the Eastern Forwarding Company.

BEAT WORK ON PACE.

The work of building a warehouse at the end of the State pier, at New London, which it is said is for the Bremen, is progressing rapidly. Over ten men reported for work on the building early today.

Dispatches from Bremen via Amsterdam, state that the ship is at the submarine have within the past few days heard from both the Bremen and Deutschland by wireless and that all was reported well.

While everybody is waiting the appearance of the Bremen, reports reach Boston that the Deutschland has been sighted off the Grand Banks by the Norwegian steamship Steadfast.

Ginnell Makes New Fight in 'Deception' Case

By International News Service. London, Aug. 11.—Lawrence Ginnell, Irish Nationalist member of the House of Commons, who was recently convicted of attempting to gain entrance to a prison camp by false pretenses and was sentenced to pay a $100 fine or go to jail for six weeks, filed an appeal today.

The appeal is being supported by the Gaelic League, an organization that has been working for home rule for Ireland.

When Ginnell was arraigned in Bow Street court, last month it was testified that he gave a false name in an effort to gain entrance to Kettleford barracks where a number of Irish rebels were confined.

Ginnell's defense was that the name he used was the Gaelic form of Ginnell and that he was not practicing any deception.

CHARGES PLOT BY POLICE

Wife of Sokol, Who Was Almost Beaten to Death, Declares Patrolmen Were Seeking Revenge

Warrants for the arrest of Patrolmen Owen J. Donnelly and Elan W. Morgan were asked today by William R. Scharton, representing the family of Judge Sullivan in the Municipal Court as the result of their beating David Sokol, 46 years old, of Standford street, West End.

Sokol, who was a witness against the police at the recent so-called "police graft" cases, is at the Relief Hospital suffering from three broken ribs and many cuts and bruises about the head and body.

Mrs. Sokol, wife of the injured man, today declared to the AMERICAN that after five men had used their clubs and their fists on Sokol and had almost beaten him to death, Patrolman Morgan said:

"We've been looking to get you and we've got you now. We wanted to do this for a long time."

Attorney Scharton denounced the beating of Sokol as an outrage.

An investigation has been demanded. Mrs. Fannie Sokol, his wife, today accused the police of "framing up" her husband and his son, Hyman, sixteen, who was arrested on a charge of assault with intent to kill, show also charges that her son, Hyman, was beaten up on another occasion when he was under arrest.

The police say Hyman had night attacked the patrolmen with a knife and that the elder Sokol resisted arrest. The law gives the police the right to use "reasonable force" in making an arrest, but the breaking of three ribs of the prisoner indicates that they apparently had more force than the Russians."

ROBE PUTS JUST LOSSES OVER 100,000

Tome, Aug. 11.—The mighty four days' battle which resulted in the capture of Gorizia by the Italians cost the Austro-Hungarian 100,000 men in killed and wounded, and counting the prisoners, it is estimated to dismember from the front the Austro-Hungarian army, which fell back from the Isonzo River, retreating behind some of the second line positions, taking their heavy guns with them.

The advance of the Italian continues with good success.

THOUSANDS CAPTURED.

The number of prisoners in the hands of the Italians is being increased all the time. It is believed that the total may reach 100,000. A dispatch to the Corriere d'Italia states that the Austrians defending Gorizia retired to a line stretching from Tereno to the Vipascio River, but that the heavy artillery was still further withdrawn.

The Italians continue to follow the Austro-Hungarian, and in clearing the plain of Gorizia they are making big captures of prisoners.

Great numbers of Austro-Hungarian dead were found in their shell-wrecked trenches and camps. It is estimated that the aggregate number of dead on the Italian side is at least 25,000, while the wounded are estimated at 50,000.

The first driver news from Gorizia was received today and it says that the city was less seriously damaged than this was at first reported. At the Wednesday it was believed that Gorizia had been completely wrecked by the Italian artillery.

The number of dead and wounded among the civilian population was not large.

At the last moment the military authorities refused to allow the Italian-speaking part of the population to leave, but every assistance was given to wealthy Austrians.

POWERFUL NEW WEAPON.

The fall of Gorizia was chiefly due to the terrific effects of a new weapon called the bombardier, writes the military expert of the New York Times. "The bombardier resembles a large howitzer and throws a heavy projectile charged with gelatin, but has a range of only about 400 feet."

The difference between ordinary artillery and the bombardier lies in the projectile. The artillery shell includes itself in the ground and explodes, creating a large hole. The projectile thrown by the bombardier explodes on the surface, shattering buildings.

WAR SUMMARY

The Italians, having occupied Gorizia, have reached the first defensive line outside that town, according to the official statement from Rome today.

Unofficial dispatches add that the Austrians have withdrawn their heavy artillery behind the Vipascio River line. The Austrian losses in prisoners are growing. Officially they are set at 20,000; unofficially at 35,000.

The capture of Gorizia is in no sense decisive. There is the hardest kind of fighting ground still to be traversed before Trieste will be imperilled. The capture of Gorizia, strategically, is comparable to the capture of Verdun by the Germans. It is simply the occupation of a major enemy position in the first line of defense.

The Russian advance toward Lemberg from the south continued today, the Germans admitting a retreat in the Dniester region.

Stanislav is the immediate obstacle in the Russian path, but the major defense of Lemberg in this region is Halicz. Teutonic pressure in the Stokhod sector, meanwhile, must be met by the Russians or their whole line southward will be imperilled. The Germans have made slight gains along the Stokhod, where their artillery appears to have gained the ascendancy.

The French today reported minor gains in Picardy and at Verdun. None were of any particular importance.

The Germans report the capture of some 500 British in recent fighting in Picardy. The British claim progress north of Pozieres.

WILSON WON'T HEDGE'S PAPER CHANGE FRONT ON 'VOTES'

Washington, Aug. 11.—President Wilson will "stand pat" on his declaration that the states and not the nation should decide the question of suffrage. He will not declare in favor of the proposed constitutional amendment, the White House said today, even though the women's party, national conference, now in session in Colorado Springs, adopts resolutions endorsing his candidacy and endorsing Hughes.

In behalf of the President, the statement was made at the White House that he espoused equal suffrage as a State issue long before he had even decided to become a candidate for re-election, and that he cannot change his position now to suit the leaders of the suffrage movement in the States where the women have the vote.

The President's political managers in the States where the women have the vote, the Colorado Springs conference intimated that this will aid the President in many of the States where the women have the vote.

As for the Hughes campaign, Mr. Wilson, it is directly charging the administration with "political log rolling," violation of the civil service, "extravagance in office" and "immorality in administering the affairs of the country," the bitterness in administering the affairs of the country.

Friends of the President declare that he will answer every charge made against him by the Republican candidate, especially those charges which directly affect his administration.

ADVICE WAS NEEDED.

Munich, Aug. 11.—A dispatch from Munich says that the Bavarians' losses on the Somme front during July were $5,000, many of which $1,000 were killed, 6,000 were wounded, including 2,000 Germans, and 4,000 were missing.

AMERICA SEEN AS BRITISH ALLY BY VON REVENTLOW

By COUNT VON REVENTLOW.
Associate Editor of the Deutsche Tageszeitung.

Berlin, Aug. 11.—Wherever and whenever a voice has been raised in America since the beginning of the war, it has, without exception, cried: "Germany must not conquer; must not be too powerful."

This attitude is partly due to the growing conviction that the Panama Canal is a failure and never will be available for battleships, and thus America has more to fear from Japan.

Had the Americans really desired the freedom of the seas it would have been in their power to secure it, but America has placed itself in opposition to the German Empire for fear it might harm, or, indeed, annihilate British-American traffic.

Moreover, just as a strong American fleet in the Pacific is essential to Britain, so is a strong British fleet in the Atlantic necessary for the United States.

In the future the Anglo-Saxon nations, perhaps marching independently, will stand opposed to the German Empire and the German people.

BRITISH GAIN POINTS ON SOMME.

By SIDNEY B. CAVE.
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

London, Aug. 11.—Advances made by the British at two points on the Somme front last night, the War Office reported today.

North of Baucourt-Petit a short length of German trenches was captured. In the district north of Pozieres the British renewed their pressure against the Germans, forcing them back still further. A determined counter attack was delivered by the Germans east of Pozieres, but it was repulsed.

To Rush Ratification of Danish Treaty

By International News Service.

Washington, Aug. 11.—The Senate Foreign Relations Committee will take up the Danish treaty early next week and recommend the ratification without delay.

Senator Lodge, the ranking Republican member of the committee, is co-operating with Chairman Stone to rush the treaty before adjournment.

Some opposition is expected to develop on the floor over the price, $75,000, to be paid for the three West Indian islands. The present Congress has already appropriated a billion and half dollars at this season and some of the Senators who have been urging economy are planning a fight against the treaty.

FREE POLAND FOR AID

By LEONARD SPRAY.
Special to the International News Service and London Daily Telegraph.

Notterdam, Aug. 11.—The present position of the Central Powers on the eastern front, it is believed, is within the range of possibility that desperate measures may be resorted to.

These under contemplation are of a combined political and military character and are quite apart from calling in the Polish question between Germany and Austria-Hungary.

Another desperate measure has been suggested, that the Central Powers should give evidence that they do not fear to take thorough measures under extraordinary circumstances and any such measures will undoubtedly affect Poland.

than necessary even if the prisoner did resist.

Patrolman Morgan today in the Central police court applied for warrants against the wife of David Sokol, and Judge Sullivan issued the following:

Warrants charging Mrs. David Sokol, wife of David, with assault and battery on Patrolman Donnelly and Morgan, and with attempting to rescue David Sokol, while David is a prisoner.

Warrants for Hyman Sokol, son of David, charging him with attempting to kill Patrolman Donnelly and Morgan, and with attempting to rescue David Sokol, while David is a prisoner.

Warrant for David Sokol in addition to the assault and battery charges on which he was originally arrested charging him with assault on the two patrolmen.

Mrs. Sokol told her story to an AMERICAN reporter as follows:

"My husband was taken when Patrolman Morgan and Donnelly came. He got up and was standing in front of the bedroom when Morgan hit him over the head with a bill and threw him on the bed. My husband was standing with his back to the officers when he was hit."

Mrs. David Sokol, Who Says Police Beat Husband

PELLED BOY AWAY.

"They tried to drag Hyman into the room to beat him, but I pulled him away."

"They tried to say Hyman is seventeen years old, so as to put him in juvenile court, but we proved by a birth certificate in the last case that he was under fifteen and he is only sixteen now."

Mrs. Dora Orinsky, seventy-eight, mother of Mrs. Sokol, entered the room to show the reporter a blood-stained shirtwaist which she held in her hands, and Mrs. Sokol continued:

"That is the waist my mother had on yesterday when they pushed her with their bloody hands."

Mrs. Sokol pointed to bloodstains on a shirt, saying:

"That's where they hit my head when they were taking him out."

"My son Hyman did not use a knife on the policemen. All the knives were in the kitchen in their usual place."

Mrs. Esther Goodman of Ashland street, West End, on whom David Sokol is alleged to have made the assault for which he was arrested, said last Friday I was coming down from court. At the corner of Boston street I met Mr. Sokol.

"He asked me why my son, who is a frankfurter peddler, did not buy suits from him. I told him, if he had any business with my son, to see him. Sokol then pulled my waist, hit me on the chest and pushed me against a brick wall. I fell to the street."

"I was not a witness against Sokol in the police hush money case and I never was in a witness stand before morning, when I applied for a warrant."

"The reason for my delay in getting a warrant was that until yesterday I was sick. The police at the Jay street station told me Sokol was a 'bad man.'"

Morgan called at headquarters of Morgan, but that nothing had come of them.

At police headquarters today it was found that a complaint had been made some time ago by David Sokol against Morgan and Donnelly for alleged assault on Hyman Sokol. The complaint, which was filed by David Sokol, and the Sokol attorney, "Jack of merit," and the Sokol attorney, "Jack of merit," were satisfied with the decision.

The so-called "police graft" case, which testimony was given concerning the "hush" money paid in connection with the conduct of alleged disorderly Hyman, is still pending before Judge Brackett.

Patrolman Morgan, who tried it, has declared that he testimony was given at the trial upon which any police officer could be convicted.

POLICEMAN TESTIFIED.

Lieutenant Alphonse W. Parker, of Station 15, formerly a sergeant at the Jay street station, and Patrick J. Pay, a special patrolman, were among those who testified before Judge Brackett.

The police version of the arrest of Sokol yesterday differs considerably from that given by members of the family. They declare Sokol refused to accompany them and attempted to escape. He ran toward a front room, they say, with both patrolmen at his heels.

In the struggle that followed in the front room windows and furniture were smashed. A crowd collected outside.

The police allege that after they had captured Sokol, they were set upon by Mrs. Sokol and her son, Hyman. Hyman attacked the two patrolmen with a long bread knife which he took from the kitchen table.

They further charge that Hyman lunged with the bread knife at Donnelly and struck him.

THUMB WAS CUT.

The police allege that Patrolman Donnelly's left thumb was cut. After Donnelly's injury had been treated at the station he went off duty. Morgan's right thumb was cut and his face scratched, but he resumed duty after treatment.

The police state that the other members of the Sokol family were still striking at them as they hurried David through the crowd.

At the police station today DuVal found David Sokol's condition so serious that he ordered him taken to the Heller Hospital.

Two police records show David Sokol has been convicted in past years on a number of charges, including that of operating a house with a bad reputation. He now conducts a bakery business in the West End.

When Judge Murray asked Hyman how old he was, the boy replied "I am fifteen and a half years."

"You are older than that," declared Judge Murray.

"No, no, I am not," replied the young man.

Attorney Scharton told the court

Judge Believes He Should Not Act in Sokol Assault Case

JUDGE JOHN G. BRACKETT of the Central police court, who heard the testimony in the so-called "police graft" case, said today:

"I don't believe that I should discuss any case that has been heard by me. I remember the case and, if David Sokol has been wrongfully treated, he has the right to consult an attorney, and seek redress."

"It does not seem to me that I should take judicial notice of any action, because a man happened to be a government witness, as the case might come before me later. It is for some body else to act first."

After those court proceedings Attorney Scharton went before Judge Sullivan and asked for warrants for the arrest of Patrolman Donnelly and Morgan on the charge of assault and battery on David Sokol.

Judge Sullivan listened to the evidence of Patrolman Morgan. He then informed Attorney Scharton that he would continue the case until Monday in order to give both sides a chance to verify the age of the boy.

SERIOUS WARRANT.

Judge Sullivan listened to the evidence of Patrolman Morgan. He then informed Attorney Scharton that he would continue the case until Monday in order to give both sides a chance to verify the age of the boy.

CASES IN COURT.

Hyman Sokol and his mother, Mrs. David Sokol, were arrested before Judge Murray in the Municipal Court. Attorney William Scharton, who appeared for the defendants, waived the reading of the complaint. Owing to conflicting testimony regarding the age of the boy the case was continued until next Monday.

When Judge Murray asked Hyman how old he was, the boy replied "I am fifteen and a half years."

"You are older than that," declared Judge Murray.

that he was prepared to show that the boy was not fifteen, and that he had a certificate from Russia, properly indorsed, which stated that the boy was born in November, 1905.

Attorney Scharton then asked the court to send the case to the juvenile court.

Patrolman Morgan told Judge Murray that, according to the father of the boy, who testified in the juvenile court a year ago when Hyman was charged with breaking and entering, his son was born in the fall of the year 1905.

The court was then asked by Attorney Scharton to listen to the story of the mother, who should know when her son was born.

Mrs. Sokol testified that her son was born in Russia, in the Winter of 1905, as the certificate stated.

Mrs. Sokol testified that her husband said in the juvenile court that Hyman was born in 1905.

After listening to the evidence Judge Murray announced that he would continue the case until Monday in order to give both sides a chance to verify the age of the boy.

OPPOSITION TO THE PUBLIC

"Where Are My Children?"

And the Mass Meeting to Be Held at the Majestic Theatre Next Sunday Night, Aug. 13, when

Mr. DAVID GOLDSSTEIN

WILL SPEAK IN

Opposition to Birth Control

In spite of our protestations to the contrary, we find that a great many people still believe that we were in some way or other connected with the mass meeting at the Majestic Theatre, July 30 last, at which time the advocates of BIRTH CONTROL and sympathizers with Mr. Van K. Allison, sentenced to three years imprisonment for the distribution of BIRTH CONTROL literature, expounded their views freely, and that the management of "WHERE ARE MY CHILDREN?" is really in favor of the propaganda.

We have constantly asserted and now reassert that the management is neither for nor against BIRTH CONTROL; that "WHERE ARE MY CHILDREN?" was never intended to be, nor is, in any way an agent of that movement.

To make our denial the more forcible, and in spirit of fair play, we have offered the MAJESTIC THEATRE for next Sunday night, Aug. 13, to the opponents of BIRTH CONTROL. The offer has been accepted, and MR. DAVID GOLDSTEIN will answer the arguments advanced by Mrs. Margaret Sanger and others, and reply to their scathing criticisms of Judge Murray and District Attorney Pelletier for the conviction of Mr. Allison.

The theatre will be open to the public. Mr. Goldstein is a convert to the Catholic faith, and known the country over as an able debater, lecturer, and author, having withdrawn from his Socialist activities some years ago, and we wish to be held in no way responsible for any remarks he may make on this occasion.

We trust that this action on our part will convince the most skeptical that our position in this controversy is exactly as we have stated—NEUTRAL.

SAVE FIREMEN IN PLAZE AT NORTH END

Members of Ladder 5 in command of Lieutenant Longhough were cut off from escape from the roof of the burning building of W. H. Jones Company, 125 to 127 Hanover street, corner of Blackstone and North Centre streets, early today, and members of Ladder 1 and Engine Company 3 were driven from the fire escape by the heavy black smoke and flames pouring from the windows of the two top floors.

Lieutenant Longhough and his men went to the roof to ventilate the building when flames poured from the windows and out of their return to the fire escape.

Arthur Chief Tabor ordered aerial ladder 3 from Blackstone street to Hanover street and the men were taken down the ladder by their associates.

The fire started on the top floor of the building and spread to the floor below, causing a damage estimated by Chief Tabor, at $12,000.

The building is a five-story brick structure.

For about an hour before the fire was discovered police officers of the Hanover street station under Sergeant James Wright searched the district, but could not find the fire.

MISS DOROTHY ESTES, Wellesley graduate, of Lowell, who was drowned in a harbor off Ponck Pond, near Georgetown.

The bodies of Miss Dorothy Estes of Lowell and fifteen-year-old Beards Stenofsky of Chelsea, who were drowned in Ponck Pond, Georgetown, were removed to their late homes today for burial.

Miss Estes lost her life in a tragic attempt to rescue her blind charge, Miss Stenofsky, who had waded beyond her depth. Miss Estes was twenty-two years old and graduated from Wellesley College in June.

The drowning occurred while fourteen other little blind girls and Henry Longfellow, an aged man, stood by trying to render assistance. Mr. Longfellow finally plunged into the water and drew out the body of Miss Estes.

The party of fifteen girls from the Perkins Institute for the Blind, with Miss Estes as supervisor, were coming on the shore of the pond. It had been the daily custom of the girls to go walking on a nearby beach, while Miss Estes watched them from the shore.

Several little blind girls were dispersing themselves in the water, laughing and talking, when the Stenofsky girl got separated from the others, and started to wade out. Miss Estes, from the shore, shouted a warning. But the girl, becoming confused and losing her sense of direction, stepped into a deep hole and, with a scream, sank.

Colorado Springs, Col., Aug. 11.—Distinctive feminism, the national leaders of the National Woman's party are reserving the right to change their mind in the political franchise which is being worked out in the national conference today. Anthony amendment. On the other hand the women declare that Mr. Hughes cannot be voted out of their support, although his proposals were tempting. The women feel that the party can best hold its strength by retaining its individuality.

Young Britt, the New Bedford featherweight, who looks up as being clearly one of the best fighters in New England, a fast stepper and good puncher with it, is wanted by the Fairmount Club in New York for an engagement with Billy Fitzsimmons, according to Manager Cass. Young Britt has likewise signed to box Don McCarroll, at Gloucester August 21.

To hear one tell it, at Belmont you'll have the slickest bit of trouble getting a match with Young Britt if he will back up his evident willingness with some cash. Cass claims he will post $200 Britt will make weight for Belmont. What's more, he will want the kale to stay up and go as a side bet.

SHOWN COMING.

It's to be Johnny Dundee, the noted New York lightweight, a classy little fighter, who usually heavy in both any time he scales as high as 120 pounds, and Johnny O'Leary, the Scotch boxer who made a big hit in his recent fight with Ewer Hammer, in next Tuesday night's main number on the Army A. A. card.

There doesn't appear to be a chance for this bout to prove a fiasco. This is because Dundee is a proven champion, as he certainly proved his all-roundness in his 172-173 battle, and then he'll be out before he left the ring, was to defeat Irish Whelton, Sherman and three kids.

The talent wasn't sure just what Shammy O'Brien was going to do, and the fact the Yorkers boy was made a 10 to 2 favorite by the betting fraternity, which seldom makes a mistake, shows Shammy was expected to deliver very big.

GOODY.

While out of Half Way Rock during the boat to windward, the Ellen collided with the Wakaia II, and as a result, the latter was forced out of the race with a broken keel. While the Britmore withdrew after fouling the Southard Brothers before the race, race Charles F. Curtis telephoned the regatta committee that he was responsible for the collision with the Wakaia II, and that he wished to withdraw the Ellen from the race.

Charles Francis Adams scored his fourth win of the season in his Albee and because of the wonderful speed and the clever manner in which the former Canadian boat has been sailed during the last five races, he is the most feared boat in the fleet and from her port bow, she will win for only accidents that can keep Charles Francis Adams from winning the Sir Thomas Lipton cup.

Johnston Makes Holler Can't See Mack Match

By RINGSIDE.

Evidently the officials of the Army A. A. are trying to construct a Joe Weir-Frankie Mack match. Jimmie Johnston, the hustling New York fistic impresario, handles Weir among a batch of other renowned Queensberry workmen, not to mention a bunch of buildings, including Madison Square Garden—for boxing purposes.

He writes the AMERICAN giving his version why the Weir-Mack match is being held up. Johnston's mislives are always interesting and here goes for his most recent utterance.

Among other things the abbreviated—

For next Tuesday night, though, there's no doubt concerning either starter. Dundee is a star of the first magnitude, as he proved long ago. Right to Join the United States Is a Privilege Worth Paying for, Says Mr. Hearst.

Aug. 9, 1916.

THE dispatches state that the Danish West Indies will gain immeasurably by their sale to the United States and that this purchase by the United States is expected to avert bankruptcy and social revolt in the islands.

In other words, becoming a part of the United States is not the calamity which the Wilson Administration has seemed to consider it, especially with relation to Mexico.

It would be worth while for the Danish West Indies to pay twenty-five million dollars for the privilege of being a part of the United States instead of the United States paying twenty-five millions for the privilege of allowing them participation in our Union.

In the same way if Mexico belonged to the United States, bankruptcy and social revolt would be eliminated there; and it would be well worth Mexico's while to pay the United States ten times twenty-five millions for the privilege of becoming a part of the United States and of sharing the benefits of our Government, of our business development, of our progress and our prosperity.

It is a wholly stupid and un-American conception, a wholly false conception of the situation which regards the possible entrance of Mexico into the privileges of the United States as more of an advantage to the United States than it is to Mexico.

We know we have the finest country in the world, the best form of government in the world, the most liberal and enlightened people, the most prosperous conditions.

We are an association of independent States, a society—a club, if you please—into whose membership it is an incalculable privilege to enter.

We should have a waiting list of supplicant outside States eager to take advantage of the first opportunity to join our Union and participate in our advantages.

The majority of the Mexicans are poor, ignorant and unenlightened people who may be excused for not fully realizing these obvious facts. The more intelligent men of the Mexican community realize them.

There is no excuse, however, for intelligent American citizens not appreciating these facts as they are, for not fully understanding the value of their own citizenship and the inestimable boon and blessing which the United States would confer upon a war-torn State like Mexico by allowing it to share the peace, the protection, the prosperity and the privileges of our Union.

WILLIAM RANDOLPH HEARST.

Annexation Would Be a Blessing to Mexico

IN the letter to the AMERICAN, reproduced above, concerning the right policy to use in Mexico, Mr. Hearst used this expression:

"The United States is a society—a club, if you please—into which it is an incalculable privilege to enter."

That is exactly true. History proves it to be true.

Florida once belonged to Spain.

Louisiana was part of Napoleon's empire.

Both were taken into the society of American States.

And who doubts that both are more free, more progressive, better off in every way than if they had remained outside of this society?

California, Texas, New Mexico, Arizona and Utah were parts of Mexico seventy years ago.

They became, by the fortune of war, parts of the society of American States.

Are they not infinitely richer, more populous, more happy, more advanced than if they had remained Mexican States?

Then where do the President of the United States and his party advisers and closest counsellors get authority for their doctrine that annexation of the rest of Mexico to the United States would be an outrage upon the Mexican people and a blot upon the honor of this country?

A cruel outrage, indeed, to confer upon these big-eyed and hidden people the high privilege of free citizenship in our great and orderly nation!

A black blot upon our honor, indeed, to rescue ten millions of oppressed and terror-ridden people from the lawless rule of murderers and thieves!

Sometimes we do wonder if common sense has not deserted the White House and the Capitol—if, indeed, common sense has ever dwelt there since this Democratic Administration came into power.

How Women Can Aid Preparedness

By G. Vere Tyler

ENTERING upon any great national act implies, first of all, courting the right spirit. And so woman's first move toward preparedness for war should not be the idea of definite limited service, but how she can develop the right spirit within her. Should a great tragedy like war involve this country, she will then be properly equipped, not only to perform whatever practical part she may have the privilege to undertake, but she will also be an inspiration to man, in whatever trying position he may find himself.

All great deeds are the manifestations of great spirits. It was the spirit of conquest that made a Corsican corporal master of Europe. It was the spirit of patriotism that transformed a peasant girl of France into an immortal soldier.

It was the spirit of self-sacrifice that made Florence Nightingale a battlefield beacon light. It was the spirit of Susan II. Anthony and her successors that started the movement that gives woman's voice a bearing in the world's affairs to-day.

It is the spirit of Mrs. Pankhurst that has made a prison cell a welcome abode of starvation detestable.

Of all demands on the spirit, war makes the greatest number. It calls for the spirit of heroism, endurance, liberation, self-sacrifice and charity to those who are opposing and despoiling using us.

That which controls all our exalted actions is the spirit. Spirit is the energizing principle of human life. It is the foundation of hope; the revivifier of courage; the inspirer of charity. When the spirit falters, the body follows.

The right spirit can only be evoked by training upon every habit, malice, narrow conceptions, and giving our highest and noblest emotions full play. Also, to be open to the right spirit, it is necessary to have reached a condition of tranquillity in the face of all that is turbulent.

One must be able to ride above prejudice and be in harmony with that which is, above the temporal.

Right spirit is discriminating but without price. It asks only that the heart that seeks it be clean. Spirit subsists upon intention. It is indispensable in all human endeavor.

American women have an example of the right spirit among woman-kind that no other country can boast. It illumines the pages of history and at the mention stirs all hearts.

I refer to the spirit of the Southern women that kept at bay for four long years an army far out-numbering their own; that kept rugged, foot-weary, hungry men, with falling, bleeding hearts, steadfast at their posts, even when all hope was gone.

It was the spirit of the Southern women that enabled them to awaken from the lethargy and inactivity exaggerated slave service has engendered and toll day and night of what-to them at any rate—was hard labor. It was this spirit that enabled them to fashion garments for their loved ones that, while stained with their tears, had woven into them the faith and courage that provoked superhuman acts of bravery.

Just as it was the spirit of those women that helped crown defeat with everlasting glory. It must be the spirit of America, women that will aid the warriors of this nation to meet and keep at bay any foe, be that foe the combined world.

What the moon is to the ocean, the stars to the desert, the sun to the day, woman should be to man in case of war—the light that, though dimmed at times by clouds, never fails to shine.

Our Teeth in Peace and in War

By Woods Hutchinson, M. D.

The World's Best Known Writer on Medical Subjects

PART TWO.

THE next demand of the teeth is that they be kept clean, and for this purpose nothing has ever been invented to equal that modern means of grace—the toothbrush.

It is true that some of our most enthusiastic dental faddists declare that by always selecting coarse food, and particularly finishing up each meal with it, the teeth and gums can be "chewed" so clean as to make the toothbrush almost unnecessary.

Yet even though this may be theoretically correct and good results may be got in a small group of hand-picked and grown-up-dentists, so far as the overwhelming mass of the evidence goes, nothing yet has been invented to equal the toothbrush.

The proof of the brushing is in the shiny teeth, and upon a basis of thousands of thousands of cases, there is nothing either the medical or the dental profession feels as absolutely confident in getting the results from as good, plain brushes faithfully applied three times a day.

There may be savages or peasants who have ideally perfect teeth, but they have never yet been discovered, and the myth of their perfection has never survived the establishment of a dental clinic among them.

To take the situation as we actually find it, the white and enamel most beautiful and enduring sets of teeth to be seen anywhere in the world today are right here in these United States, among people who have had toothbrushes and good dental care from their childhood years.

The poorest, blackest, most broken and earliest decaying teeth are to be found in feasting villas and mountain resorts, and remote, poverty-stricken country districts.

Modern city teeth may require some scrubbing and filing, but they look better and chew better and harbor fewer "bugs" and last longer than any others yet invented or discovered and examined in thousands during life by competent experts.

Some negroes and Indians, for instance, have wonderful teeth, but the majority of them suffer fearfully from toothache, caries, gum abscess and all the evils of civilized teeth.

Brush without ceasing, thoroughly, as well as at night, after every meal and at bedtime, and you can pretty certainly bank upon it that your teeth will stay by you until sixty, sixty-five or seventy. You will probably lose a few, even with the best of care, for some teeth are born soft and pitted and need filing almost as soon as they are out the gum, but you'll have plenty left to munch to and your dental arcus will be "undisfigured, but still in the ring" until you yourself "throw up the sponge."

When you keep in the middle of the road it is better not to spread too much.

When a girl is willing to marry a man who chews tobacco it is a sign that she fears the husband crop is going to be a failure.

Mysteries of Nature Solved by Science

Some Curious Facts About Wells and Cellars—Difference Between Day Measured by the Sun and Measured by the Stars—Facts About Clouds

By Garrett P. Servis

"Why is well water warmer in winter than in summer, and why is the same true of a cellar?"—E. H. H."

HAVE you tried your well water with a thermometer in winter and in summer? Of course, when tested by drinking the water seems warmer in cold weather on account of the contrast of temperatures.

But the thermometer will show, unless there is some local peculiarity affecting the well in question by which the water is warmed in the winter time, that the real temperature of the water is about the same at all seasons.

As to cellar temperatures, it is plain that they should be higher in winter than in summer because in cold weather the cellar more carefully closed and more or less of the artificial heat supplied to the living rooms reaches the air and the walls of the cellar.

"The following statement explains the fact that clouds float in the atmosphere when they consist of condensed water, and some of ice, both of which are heavier than air?"—E. H. H."

The actual measure of time covered by a day as we know it is 23 hours 56 minutes 5 seconds. Does that mean that there are two kinds of minutes, one of actual measure, or what does this difference mean?"—C. L. H."

It means simply that the length of the day, which depends upon the rotation of the earth around its axis, varies according to whether the sun or a star is taken as the starting and finishing point on the dial of the sky.

Since it is the sun which makes daylight for us, it is convenient to use the sun as the mark, although the position of the sun is shifted, as that of a star is not, by the daily advance of the earth in its annual orbit about the sun.

Because of this shifting, which takes place in the same direction in which the earth moves both in rotating on its axis and in traveling around the sun—viz., from west toward east—the earth has to make a little more than one full turn on its axis every day in order to bring the sun back to the meridian.

The time required for this extra amount of turning causes the solar, or sun-measured, day to be about 5 minutes 55 seconds longer than the sidereal, or star-measured day.

Accordingly when we fit the frame of 24 hours to the solar day, the sidereal day comes out only 23 hours 56 minutes 5 seconds long. On the contrary, if the frame of 24 hours is fitted to the standard (and it is the true length of time required for one rotation of the earth), the solar day would be proportionately longer than twenty-four hours.

But for convenience as already said, we choose to fit the twenty-four hours to the period required for the earth to turn from noon to noon, or from midnight to midnight, and thus exaggerate the length of the day.

Yet, even then we are not out of the difficulties, since variations in the speed of the earth in its orbit about the sun produce irregularities in the length of time elapsing between two successive appearances of one sun on the meridian, and to smooth these out we have to imagine a fictitious sun, traveling at a uniform rate through the sky, and with this imaginary sun our clocks are trained to keep step. That is why it is not always noon when the clock says it is.

"What is the explanation of the fact that clouds float in the atmosphere when they consist of condensed water, and some of ice, both of which are heavier than air?"—E. H. H."

Clouds consist of particles of condensed water vapor, and in some cases of extremely fine spicules of ice, which is also formed from water vapor. Water vapor which arises by evaporation from the surface of seas, lakes, etc., is lighter than dry air at the same temperature and pressure. It is also invisible.

It disseminates itself through the atmosphere and ascends to great heights. There owing to the fall of temperatures and to other causes it begins to condense into particles which are slightly heavier than air, and which become visible clouds.

Owing to the influence of winds and of rising currents, as well as to the fact that the condensed particles are nearly as light as air, the clouds remain floating, like floss suspended matter in water, until further condensation creates particles of sufficient size to form rain drops, whose relative great weight brings them rapidly to the ground.

That clouds do slowly descend even when not condensed into rain, may be observed when they are seen to dissolve and disappear without apparent cause. This is caused by the cloud's descent to a level where a rise of temperature causes the condensed water vapor to revitalize, thus becoming again invisible.
